

An open cubical vessel is standing on an inclined plane, angle  $45^\circ$ , as seen in Fig. 326. Its walls are thin and it is kept from sliding down by a small wedge (C).

The vessel is filled to its half with mercury and an iron sphere is swimming on the surface from point A in the direction of point B. When does the vessel tip over?

